Delia School Hi-Lites

(By I. D. HARRIS)

Our Delia students welcome back to the village, after two months' absence, that grand "old" citizen Mr. Duncan Campbell. Mr. Campbell has spent most of the last three months around his boyhood home near Beaverston, on the east shore of Lake Simcoe, Ont. We are hoping that he will visit the schools some afternoon soon and give us some first hand information about the Muskoka Country. His only regret is that the visit was during summer, and that he couldn't give some of his old cronies a few lessons in the "Roarin' Game!"

We welcome to our village, the new manager of the Bank of Commerce, Mr. Henry Rowbotham, his wife and little girl. These new arrivals have from Uranium City, Saskatchewan. To them we extend the wish that their days among us will be happy ones. We must note in passing that we are getting many fine people into our communities from across our eastern boundary. Mr. Douglas—this is your loss and our gain!

Now to bring you up to the remaining members of our teaching staff of eleven teachers.

Last week we mentioned Mr. Paschynuk. His last term's girl friend, now Mrs. Paschynuk (nee Doris Morrison), that little lass from the Hard Hills is our efficient teacher of Grades 5 and 6. Doris had the misfortune of studying most of her grade 12 subjects during the tutelage of the writer of this column. We recall her excellent mark in English 30. She and Mari are now attending Saturday morning classes in English 2 at Trochu. Watch it, Mari! She'll top you.

We shall give you more information about the remaining members of our staff. Miss Gladys Barrie (grade 3), Mrs. Lefly Huddy (grade 3), and Mrs. Fura Dush, nurse, mistress of one of our grade 9 classes.

The Delia High (grades 10, 11, and 12) held a brief organization meeting at their students' union on Friday afternoon, October 7. After singing the Nova Scotia national anthem, "The Maple Leaf Forever," led by Miss Louise Kary, they patiently listened to instructions from their principal, H. He then asked the principal, who assisted as secretary by Miss Marlene Smyth.

The nominations for president were: Fred Bates, nominated by Leslie Dault; Leslie Dault, nominated by Jimmie Bates and Richard Marshall, nominated by Sandra Thompson. For vice-president: Fred Bates (Physicist Oson), Paul Dyck (Janis Simpson), and Albie Elbert (Fred Bates). After the ballots were carefully counted, Andrew Kobash announced that Les Toot, that sharp young man from Micheli, was president; and Paul Dyck, the husky little farmer from Craigville, was Mr. Toot's second in command.

Miss Anne Merck was chosen by the high school teaching staff as treasurer. A brief plenary session of the high school will be held on Tuesday to choose the secretary. He or she will have a thankless job—but a very important one. The present gathering ended abruptly at 3:30 with the singing of the "Queen," the singing again led by Miss Kary.

In closing, we must again doff the old-Nort' Novie Gentry to a few former students: Roy Sloan, Mrs. Schafel (nee Helen Nelson), that young man, Elmer Fennell, and to another Elmer, Elmer Friedley, all now living in the U.F.A. of Delia; to Jimmie Simpson father of Janis, Iles, John and Jimmie Jr.; to Don Merrit, also on his charming wife (nee Della Davidson); to Mrs. Alf Pierce (nee Galtman Simonson); to her son Laverne (Dick) Pierce and to her two daughters Miss Donna and Mrs. Jack Durnie (Maxine) of Drumheller.

CANADIAN RED CROSS

Sends Supplies To Burma

Close to 5,000 articles of children's clothing, toys, and bedding, the Red Cross Provincial Headquarters in Calgary on Oct. 31 for Vancouver, enroute to Burma.

The outfit, which filled 12 wagons, were shipped in response to word from Red Cross Canada Headquarters that hundreds of Burmese children and infants were desperately in need of warm clothes. Value of supplies shipped is estimated at $2,393. The clothing will be distributed through the Burma Red Cross.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce

Natural gas is destined to be an important carrier of foreign exchange in the years to come, according to the current Commercial Letter published by the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Long-term contracts have been negotiated with the purchasers in the United States and the earnings "will not be subject to the vicissitudes of a fluctuating demand."

The addition of substantial export demands to the growing domestic market for natural gas is fostering the growth of a major industry. Natural gas sales last year earned 197.6 million for producers, but by 1965 (the first year after large-scale export deliveries) revenues will increase to some $182 million, according to estimates, and by 1969 may be over $250 million, the Letter says.

At the same time, the manufacture and the processing of natural gas byproducts will bring about greater diversification in the economy of Western Canada. It is expected that does for the whole year would be $1.00 per member.

Our meetings will be held every Friday—5 p.m.

The Board Commission in 1958 stated that each new application for a license to export natural gas must be reviewed in the light of our own future needs. The Board Commission is increasing at such a rate annually that some authorities estimate an ultimate recovery of 250 trillion cubic feet from the western fields.

Some indication of the size of these reserves can be gained from the fact that a trillion cubic feet would supply the needs of Calgary (Population, 230,000) for nearly 40 years, the Letter says.

W.M.S.

The October meeting of the Delia W.M.S. was held in the home of Mrs. Isaac, with 13 members and four visitors present.

Opening hymn, "Come Ye Thankful People, Come," was followed with prayer.

The minutes were read and approved, and correspondence read.

$5.00 was donated by Mrs. S. H. Martin.

It was decided to be a missionary of many years in India, Miss Mums, at the United Church on the evening of Nov. 14th together.

Thirty toys for infants will be sent to the Indian mission at Morley, for Xmas, as well as three woolen scarves.

Mrs. Wallace reported on the Policy of Temperance from General Council.

Mrs. Milne and Mrs. S. Sloan reported eight well-wish cards and twelve visits.

The closing hymn, "More Love to Thee," was followed with the Benediction.

Mrs. Isaac served a lovely tea.

Farm Wives Name Favorite Appliance

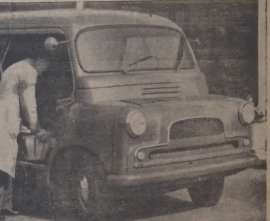

What does the Canadian farm homemaker consider the most useful piece of equipment in her home?

This question was posed to 362 homemakers, residing in each county and district of Ontario by the rural sociology of the Canada Department of Agriculture, in conjunction with the home economics service of the provincial government.

The answer: a power washing machine.

The survey, reports Dr. H. A. Abell, who is head of the rural sociology unit, listed 37 pieces of equipment as considered "most useful" by the fewer of the women were: an ironer or mangle, an electric food mixer, a sewing machine, an electric coffee maker and toaster.

Comments Dr. Abell: "These pieces of home equipment which save arduous physical labor women to be required by farm women and their husbands as a desirable and necessary part of farm family living."

If you want to know what's behind the headlines, ask any homemaker. She'll tell you it's her husband, especially at the breakfast table.

SPIRITUAL STRENGTH FOR TODAY

R. EASLEY WATKIN

COMFORT FOR MOURNERS

The prayers of Jesus Christ, known as the Beatitudes (Matthew 5:3-12), present spiritual truths, not always readily grasped. For example, "Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted." Now how can mourners be truly happy?

In 2 Corinthians, chapter 7, Paul writing on mourning and sorrow, distinguishes between the sorrow of the world that worketh death, and only sorrow that worketh repentance to salvation never to be regretted. At the Wall Street crash in 1929, many men of wealth, suddenly losing their fortune which apparently was their god, ended their lives. The mourning of which Jesus speaks is in a spiritual setting. The person has become poor in spirit, through awareness of his sin. He mourns because of it. He is sorry. Like the prodigal he is prepared to confess to his Heavenly Father his sin and the deep sense of his own unworthiness. God is pleased to receive and comfort such mourners. "The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart; and such as are of a contrite spirit." Psalm 34:18.

For those who have found comfort through repentance for sin and faith in Jesus Christ, there is strength for all the revivification of a life. A Christian friend in his later years of suffering from an incurable disease, recently went to be with his Lord in a sealed casket he had left instructions for his funeral. Here is the last verse and refrain of a hymn he had chosen.

- "Pardon for sin and a peace that endureth.
- Thy own dear promise in show and in guide;
- Strength for today and bright hope for tomorrow.
- Blessings all mine, with ten thousand besides!"

"Great is thy faithfulness!"

Morning to morning new mercies I see.

All I have needed thy hand hast provided.

"Great is thy faithfulness," Lord, unto me!"

The climax of comfort for the mourner is recorded by John, Revelation 21:4. "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain."

Short courses for Sask. farmers

Four types of practical short courses will be offered farmers from late October until March at about 90 centres in the province under the sponsorship of the Saskatchewan departments of agriculture and education and the University of Saskatchewan.

Three of the courses involve the learning of the practical skills of welding, plumbing and installing an electrical system. The fourth type of course involves increasing farmers' knowledge of agricultural subjects such as farm mechanics, soils, livestock management, the practical use of veterinary knowledge on the farm, and farm business management.

The skills courses will run Monday noon to Friday noon with the agricultural courses running three to five days during the week.

Barge Traffic Booms on B.C. Coast More Work for Tireless Tugs

Down the years, the number of tugs on Canada's west coast has grown sharply. Today, the busy port of Vancouver—one of the world's largest and finest natural harbours—boasts more tug-boat registration than any other port in North America. To handle the growing volume of coastal traffic, to berth the big ships that drop anchor the year round, in the magnificent land-locked harbour, and to be constantly at the alert to answer distress calls at any hour, in any weather, keeps British Columbia's 400-odd tugs constantly on the go.

The doughy tug-boat fills a colourful chapter in the marine history of Canada's west coast. From early times, when the stout little vessels battled the tide-ripped waters off Vancouver Island towing sailing ships to safe harbour, the indefatigable tug-boat has filled an important niche in the romance of navigation. Today, the bulk of British Columbia's coastal shipping moves by tug-drawn barge and the trend is towards larger and more specialized barges hauled by faster and more powerful tugs. Above, tug boats tug barge to booming grounds at Howe Sound, B.C.

Self-dumping log barge carrying one million board feet of spruce and cedar arrives at booming grounds near Vancouver. Two tanks on port side are flooded by opening valves. As water fills the tanks, barge slowly lists to port.

About 800 logs, which took some 12 hours to load, hit the water in 3 to 4 seconds. Big advantage of self-dumpers over old method of transporting logs across open Pacific by deep-sea rafts is less likelihood of losing logs in a storm.

The Bible today

In a recent book named "The Bible" by Peter Franken, which tells the absorbing story of the early days of the Central African Broadcasting Service, a quotation from a letter sent by an African leader sums up the effect of this broadcasting to Africans in the words: "My radio brings the whole world to my hut." The host rising from a million little hut fires has combined to create the thunder storms of change which the political weather prophets of the West only recognized when they are breaking overhead.

To quote the author of the striking phrase above we hear him say, "I hear some important events happening in Europe — I listen to talks on agriculture, veterinary and English. The reading of the Bible is not excluded — I feel proud when I switch on my fluorescent Special, and have the whole world in my hut."

By the miracle of electronics the Word of God is brought to the ears and often to the hearts of millions of Africans by the services of the Central African Broadcasting Service.

Fruit cake uses apple

A new upturning use for apples has been introduced in Canada. Dried apple — properly candied, colored and flavored — may be used instead of cherries and citrus peel for fruit cakes, reports the Canada Department of Agriculture.

The apples are prepared by a vacuum method of treating fruit for pie fillings and solid-pastry canned apples that was developed a few years ago at the Summerland, B.C., Research Station and is now used commercially.

The vacuum treatment removes the gases from the dried apple tissues and makes them firm enough to withstand the steam treatment for manufacture into candied fruit.

This process, points out researcher F. R. Atkinson, permits use of Canadian apples as an important bakery fruit.

The same colors can be used with apples as with cherries or citrus peels. When citrus peels are being handled in the same factory, a mild citrus flavor can be imparted by using some of the citrus surplus on the dried apple. A mild mandarin flavor has also been found attractive.

There are two limitations to the manufacture of this product: (1) It has to be made from apples that are firm up dried. (2) The fruit should be carefully when the apples are dried, and storage of the prepared apple is not being found practical.

The origin of Printing inks

True ink was first used for printing seals by the Chinese around 650 A.D. The seals were engraved in stone, metal, wood, jade, bamboo or horn and were used in the manner of a modern rubber stamp. This is the first instance of actual printing by means of an inverted stamp and printing ink.

While there is no positive proof, some ancient Chinese historians credit ink discoveries to an earl back in China as 588 B.C. In the library of the Chinese section of the Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto, there are reproductions of early Chinese ink makers straining through cloth, a mixture of lampglass obtained from black lacquer, and pine-sawed resin. Ink from lampglass was believed to have been invented around 400 A.D. in China. These prints illustrate ink manufacturing process in the time of Wei, A.D. 220.

Sask. telephone rates raised

Local telephone service rates, effective November 6th, designed to meet increasing costs and to assure a high standard of service by Saskatchewan Government Telephone, were announced by the Hon. C. C. Williams, Minister in Charge.

In introducing the new local rates, which allow for increases from 10-25 cents per month for residence subscribers and 20 cents to a dollar a month on business telephones, Mr. Williams had good news for many subscribers. With the introduction of the new schedule, excess mileage charges, for subscribers within the built-up areas of an exchange, will be discontinued. Instead of an increase, some 8,000 subscribers throughout the province, most of whom are in Prince Albert, Moose Jaw, Regina and Saskatoon and Regina where the cities have grown rapidly, will have a decrease in their telephone bill for local service. Paystation rates have been raised to 10c.

The Family Doctor

Magistrate & Topper Biglow set an admirable example for other magistrates dealing with motor offences in his handling of a recent case in which a driver pleaded guilty to the relatively minor charge of careless driving.

It should happen here!

When police officers testified that the man he let them in on a wild chase through city streets before being stopped, the Crown Attorney asked that the charge be laid on one of criminal negligence.

"A MAN-ANNUITY INSURANCE IN WOMAN—AN ENDURING POWER FOR GOOD AND BAD."

Careless driving laws upheld

The constitutional validity of provincial careless-driving laws was upheld recently by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The time was when careless drivers were warned by the provincial statistical jurisdiction of the provinces or inside the walls of criminal law, a federal reserve.

The case involved an appeal by a Winnipeg motorist, charged with negligence of Manitoba's careless-driving law. All while provincial careless-driving laws are the main of another to Manitoba.

For this reason, Mr. Gault's appeal was opposed by the federal government and the provinces of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Nova Scotia.

Reasons for judgment written by Mr. Justice Wilson, and concurred in by six other members of the court, including Chief Justice Justice Kesteven, rejected the proposition that the careless-driving statute was unconstitutional.

Mr. Justice Wilson said a provincial enactment "does not constitute a matter of criminal law merely because it consists of a prohibition and makes it an offence for failure to observe the prohibition."

The federal Criminal Code, he said, contains its definition of crime in a certain kind of conduct. This was not the kind of crime referred to in the Manitoba Act.

Bug bomb and industry

A female mosquito, a safe refrigerator gas to sell, a puppet, and two men, were responsible for the revolution in the packaging industry.

During World War II soldiers returning in the Pacific and North Africa were confused with the new mosquito. Spreading malaria was the specialty and in the early days of the war the mosquito was one of the most common enemies in the tropics than any other insect.

However, due to the extensive efforts of two men attached to the U.S. Department of Agriculture and to the existence of a ready-made population gas in 1943 the bug bomb was "Fron" gas and released under pressure in a aerosol can.

These early aerosols were a far cry from the sleek packages we now see on display in stores. One in charge of a car was as handsome as the sleek modern Sun-Tan-Tropic Globe and Mail.

Mr. Biglow was clearly not concerned with the fact that the cans had not, by good luck, caused any injury or property damage. He was "convinced," as he said, by the fact that the modern Sun-Tan-Tropic Globe and Mail.

America's basic alliance

(Christian Science Monitor, Boston)

Any nation which dedicates itself to human desires for freedom and progress must have a foreign policy requires. President Eisenhower in his United Nations address was downhearted in making that commitment. The United States and eloquent in proposing ways to back it up.

This was a tremendous occasion. Not only has the General Assembly been represented convention of heads of state; not only has the Dark Continent suddenly taken the spotlight with a squadron of new members, not only have critics at home and abroad been disgruntled both the President and the position of the United States, the Soviet chief and a battery of scientific propaganda offensive. Mr. Eisenhower with this challenging situation.

He did so chiefly because he relied on the basic aspirations of man for freedom and peace with justice, Nikita Khrushchev with his words to the Assembly pay off in the Communist world in terms of his soft line on against Peking's hard line. But on at least three propaganda fronts he finds himself on the defensive.

Moscow's efforts to fish in troubled waters in the Congo are being exposed as a clever way to end the friendship for the new nations. The Soviet's outrageous attack on Secretary-General Hammarskjöld is being seen as a Russian ploy to end the UN. The United States is taking the initiative in proposals both for red aid and African and new disarmament talks. But it is not the peace and disarmament proposals from other nations—to support self-determination in the Congo must, of course, be spelled out in specific acts. But it is not the peace and disarmament proposals from other nations—to support self-determination in the Congo must, of course, be spelled out in specific acts. But it is not the peace and disarmament proposals from other nations—to support self-determination in the Congo must, of course, be spelled out in specific acts.

The President offered much more than lip service. He outlined five specific programs of practical aid to the emerging nations—all to be operated through the UN. And he spelled them out in concrete detail. He said it plain that Washington has been giving sincere attention to genuine problems of the people. It is a thoughtful and generous support to them. Soviet competition in this endeavor will be welcome—so long as it is through the UN.

In another field which especially interests the uncommitted nations—which may now well tip the scales in the election of November—Mr. Eisenhower made proposals. But his disarmament and peace initiative was put forward effectively. He clarified the basic conflict between peace and disarmament. He renewed "open skies" plan was being kept in general UN efforts while yet unworkable American openness in inspection.

The power of this speech lies in its genuine human helplessness. It made clear America's basic alliance with the millions of mankind who are seeking peace in the UN Assembly. This is right in itself. But it is also the effective foreign policy. It is even the most effective foreign policy. It is even the most effective foreign policy. It is even the most effective foreign policy.

In a letter from Manitoba came this request: "I am unable to further the interests of my ten-year-old son. He has a very high school average, and has a well developed love of books and carpentry."

"Dr. Joiner, on Trans-Canada Mailings, suggested the Parent Education Associates as a possible source of help, so I am writing to you."

There are three basic ideas to keep in mind. The first is to keep the child's interests in mind. The second is to keep the child's interests in mind. The third is to keep the child's interests in mind.

For example, ten-year-olds who are interested in "stage" when gangs and child molesting are common. The third point to consider is the kind of world in which our children are to live.

They are living in a world of mass media, and the amount of learning in these areas which is important to them in later life.

They are just beginning to try making a cohesive whole.

C. L. Sulzberger, of the N.Y. Times suggests that this bit of communist political ideology may explain the irresponsible action of Soviet Premier Khrushchev at U.N. General Assembly. The Kremlin, having discovered that the U.N. is not amenable to its will, may now be setting out for international institution's total destruction.

Such reasoning is questionable on several grounds. First of these is that the U.N. General Assembly is not a "parliament" in the ordinary sense of the term. It has no power to legislate internationally. At it can accomplish is to pass resolutions and, under favorable conditions, give some effect to those resolutions in the social, economic, and military sense, through the Secretary General.

More probably, what Mr. Khrushchev really is not to do is to disband the U.N., but to pull what feeble teeth it may have by destroying only the office of the Secretary General.

COMMUNIST POLITICAL IDEOLOGY
"It is no argument against participation in the parliamentary struggle that parliament is a bourgeois state institution. The communist party does not enter this institution to function here as an organic part of parliament, but in order to act inside parliament to help the masses to shatter the state machine and parliament itself."

Above passage is part of a policy statement of the Second Congress of 1920.

EVERY CARGO CALLS FOR BANKING

In destination may be Bombay, or Odo, or even distant Timbuktu.

But wherever it is bound, chances are that a chartered bank is helping to smooth the journey. Services provided by the chartered banks simplify the task of those who buy or sell in distant lands, who often deal in unfamiliar markets, languages and currencies.

With a network of representatives around the world, the banks provide on-the-spot contacts and useful facilities wherever Canadians wish to trade or travel.

Every day, services of the chartered banks help to move the cargoes that mean so much to so many Canadians.
